

Blog about your PhD research

Credit: Nature

Who we are

Prospera is a boutique consulting firm specialized in designing and strengthening employment promotion interventions across the globe. Our mission is to enhance the effectiveness of the public and social sector in facilitating people's successful integration into the labor market, especially for disadvantaged groups such as youth, women and refugees. We work with governments, development agencies (e.g., World Bank, ILO, EU, GIZ), NGOs and other stakeholders to strengthen the policies, programs and institutions needed to facilitate people's access to the labor market and improve their working conditions. We offer strategic advice to high-level decision makers and operational guidance to implementers.

Call for PhD guest bloggers

Who?

PhD students or recent graduates conducting research on employment and labor market issues (e.g., in economics, sociology, psychology, development studies, etc.)

What?

Write a blog post to share your research findings with a wide range of labor market researchers and practitioners across the globe (via Prospera Consulting's blog and newsletter).

What kind of research is eligible?

- ✓ Policy-relevant research with practical implications for policymakers and practitioners (e.g., on better understanding specific policy challenges and on what works and what doesn't to address these challenges).
- ✓ We are open in terms of research methodology and country focus, but we are particularly interested in research on Europe and low- and middle-income countries.
- ✓ Topics can cover, for example, TVET and higher education, Public Employment Services and Active Labor Market Measures, MSME development, labor migration, working conditions in specific industries, or labor market integration of specific groups (e.g., youth, refugees, etc.).
- ✓ Your research should already be available as working paper or journal article so you can reference it in the blog post.

Interested?

To express your interest in becoming a guest blogger, send us an email with:

- 1) A quick pitch on the topic of your research
- 2) How the findings are useful (policy relevance)
- 3) Link to your paper (or as attachment)

Selected candidates will then receive guidelines on writing a guest post on our blog.

Contact us: info@prospera-consulting.com

We look forward to hearing from you!